NOTICE TO AUTHORS OF PAPERS

Manuscripts for THIS JOURNAL must represent new and original contributions, not previously published, and, if accepted, not to be published elsewhere. They should be submitted in typewritten form, with one or more duplicate copies for examination by the Editorial Board. The manuscripts should be addressed to specialists in the various fields, rather than to the general reader. In writing papers authors are requested to observe, for reasons of economy, the utmost conciseness consistent with clarity of presentation. Extensive reviews of the literature cannot be accepted; when well-known or previously published procedures have been followed in the experimental work, they should only be designated or referred to. Since readers often wish to obtain further information regarding published work, the address of the author to whom such inquiries may be directed should be included. Ordinarily this is best accomplished by showing the contributing laboratory at the head of the paper, the responsible co-author first in the list of authors, and the remainder of the address at the end of the paper. If this arrangement is not desirable, the address of the responsible co-author should be given in a footnote; it is not necessary to include
